MARSE HENRI

Greatest Editor In The Country, Says J. R. Z.

Another Good Letter Written By Our Shepherdville Correspondent—The Photograph a Great Thing.

Shepherdville, Feb. 17.—In my last letter it was not intended to even insinuate that The Jeffersonian was politically. Wattersonian, for one can read Democracy, pure and undiluted in its every editorial utterance. I simply meant that the town of Jefferson had become one of the home of the great editor. And great he is despite his peculiar views of and on politics.

The greatest editor in the country today is "Marse Henry." I do not like his brand of Democracy as shown in his editorials, but admit his vast store of learning, and his great ability to sling ink. His versatility is wonderful. He can take his mighty pen and transform a veritable swamp into a garden of roses, or vice versa. He can grapple with a great statesman and reduce him in size until he looks like one of Gulliver's Lilliputians. His mind is a vast photograph, with hundreds of fine records at hand. Almost the last of his kind, he is far the greatest, and while we often differ from him, and feel vexed and petulant, we never fail to appreciate and admire him, and when his last editorial has been written and his last reminiscence related, and we are told that he is gone, there will be mourning in Kentucky, for there is none to take his place. Believing that he is sincere in his opinions and has a right to them, and claiming the same sincerity and same rights for myself, I leave to others the question of who is wrong.

We have too much mud and politics. Politics is muddy as a general thing, and in some instances mud is political. Sunshine will dry up the mud, and turnpikes will keep us out of it entirely, but how can we get rid of politics. It is a common belief in some sections that politicians breed politics, while others adhere to the opposite view and contend that politicians breed politics; which reminds me of the question debated by a colored debating society. "Am deen a female rooster, or is de rooster a male hen?" The whole thing remains unanswered, as the judges "hung," and so am I.

Speaking of photographs, reminds me of an evening spent with some good friends last week. After some splendid music, vocal and instrument.

tal, the phonograph was brought into use, and while it cheered those present I gave myself over to meditation. What a wonderful invention! Edison never produced a greater or a grander. The little cylinder kept going around and record after record was put on and removed. Canned music, put up down East in Edison's big musical canning factory and shipped West to amuse and edify. A duet gathered in New York a stirring march picked up at Coney Island; a quartette harp-tossed in staid old Philadelphia; a two-step from Atlantic City and solos from all directions, all gathered at the night time, prepared for immediate use and canned in those little hollow records. What a world of fun, of instruction of real good, we get from the phonograph! A gray haired mother can listen to the voice of her son, who fell in battle, or the voice of a daughter who has gone to join the silent sleepers. We can listen to the silvery tones of dear ones who have fallen asleep in death or gone out into the world to return no more. Echoes of other days, as it were, which come back from "the golden shores of sweet long ago."

To the average man, who has made a few rabbit traps, or built a cistern or stone wall or something of the kind, the phonograph is a mystery. He sees it and hears it but that is all. Some people can't even operate one of them.

The grim harvest has been busy in Bullitt in the past month. A great many of our old people have answered the summons of the unseen messenger. In due time we, too, shall go to sleep and sleeping shall wake no more on earth.

The ground hog is not doing much damage this time. The weather is fine in small spots, and very good all over. "Will not be until gentle spring, all spiders and green robes on the hills and valleys and get ready for hot weather."

Peaches are O. K. and unless an unexpected spell of bad weather hits us amidst them, we shall have abundance of fine fruits.

You must excuse this hotch potch, like an impromptu hurried or speech it has been gotten up hurriedly by a hurried man who is hurrying from his hurrier. Hope to get up to or down to the work in a short while.

Yours without a struggle,
J. R. Z.

COMES BACK

At O. G. Whinn and Says the News of What is Wanted—Asks "What is a News Item?"

Fairmount, Feb. 15.—Some of our correspondents are suggesting we have less society and more news in our articles. Now, my friends, as a number of our correspondents are ladies and a large number of the patrons and readers of this paper are ladies and young people, why should we not have what they like to read, as well as the business side of every thing. The mention of the names of those who have suggested their hospitality and good will toward their neighbors and friends serves to keep alive the feeling of kindness and friendliness we have toward those we know and whom we can not always visit. A county newspaper is like a personal letter to me that get the world's news from the great dailies. I suggest that we have nothing in our articles that borders on slang—not even our signatures! Query: What is a news item?

DROWNED HIMSELF

Thomas Cole, Farmer of Near Seatonville, Arose Early Last Thursday Morning and Ended His Life.

Fairmount, Feb. 14.—Thomas Cole, one of the most highly respected citizens of the Seatonville community, drowned himself in a large water trough in his own yard on the night of Feb. 12. He had been in failing health for several years and as a consequence, was very dependent. The sad act that terminated his life is attributed to his bad health. Mr. Cole was 50 years old. He was an enterprising and prosperous farmer, having one of the best kept farms in this county. He had for a number of years been a member of the Cedar Springs Christian church. He is survived by a widow, who before her marriage was Miss Sallie Hawes, and two children, Miss Jessie Cole, of this place, and Mr. Robt. Cole, a member of the Louisville bar.

After funeral services by Rev. H. N. Reubelt at the Christian church Friday morning at 11:30, the remains were laid to rest in the Jeffersontown cemetery.

"HIRED MEN"

The Trusts Elect The Congressmen of Our Country.

J. W. Sawyer, of Colorado, Says The Predatory Rich Have Control—Colorado Like Kentucky In Some Respects.

EDITOR JEFFERSONIAN:
Dear Sir: I see by the late dispatches that the class war in Kentucky is still raging. The tobacco interests are the "hired men," the planters are trying to cure the disease of legalized graft by the puny effort of burning a few barns and small factories. If we retain present system of graft and grafting how are we to stop the pillaging of the predatory rich?

The tobacco "hand," the man who does the work, the real act of ownership, is pillaged by the land owner; he in turn is pillaged by the "warehousemen" and "brothers," they in turn are treated likewise by the tobacco trusts. The trusts elect Congressmen and the most of them (Congressmen) being but "hired men," make the laws to suit the employers of Congressmen. The Senators, being of the predatory rich class, "conform" to the acts of their employers, and why not? If you employ a printer and tell him what to do, you want it done your way or not at all. If I employ man to plough or plant trees I will do it my way, and that is right too. So, with the trusts and corporations. When they elect Judges, they want decisions by which they elect men to office to make laws they want them to make their way, and they have gotten the goods. The tobacco conditions have not yet reached the courts, but they will and then you will see how the night riders will fare.

Here in Colorado we have reached the low courts, the high courts and supreme courts—result: everything went the way the predatory rich said it must go. If a few men holding office were not tractable, ropes were put around their necks until they "re-signed." The wealthiest men in the state, are anarchists pure and simple. They bribe voters, own the newspapers, elect one of their number to the United States Senate, make and unmake Governors at their own sweet will. You will, no doubt, recall the fact that Colorado had three Governors inside of twenty-four hours. That was going wrong, was not it? Money is said to be all powerful. If that is true, do you wonder that Colorado, the richest state in the union according to natural resources, is a great place to play the holdup game of capitalism by its four big millions?

The class war extends to other industries here. I am enclosing you some views of the "sheep army" and the sheep, together with an account of the passing of 25,000 sheep from a few miles above Grand Junction over to Utah. The pictures explain the situation better than words. The "war" between the cattle men and sheep men is fierce all over this Western country. They kill, not only each other, but many thousands of sheep have been slaughtered, cattle poisoned, houses burned—all for the sake of money—material interests. Many of the people here believe that ex-Governor Frank Steenburgh, of Idaho, was killed in the stock war of his state; for which Mayor Haywood and Pettibone, Western Federation Miners' leaders, were tried and acquitted.

In my next letter I will tell you about our wonderful fruit orchards and the land values, of what was a desert only a few years ago. I have heard from several readers of The Jeffersonian—old friends when I was in business in Louisville—who thought I was dead. I was very glad to hear from them.

FARMERS

To Meet In Louisville February 28 and 29.

Canning Factory One of The Important Projects Spoken of For Jefferson County. Leading Men To Speak.

What is expected to be one of the most important meetings of the farmers of Jefferson county ever held will be brought about when the farmers' clubs of Jefferson county meet in Louisville under the auspices of the Farmers' Institute February 28 and 29.

The program, which is being arranged under the direction of Commissioner of Agriculture M. C. Rankin, club Organizer C. M. Hanna and the Assistant Secretary of the State Fair, L. B. Shropshire, includes the names of many of the most prominent farmers and agriculturists in the county, and will be broad in its range of treatment. Although definite arrangements have not yet been completed, it is more than probable that the meetings will be held at the Germania, or Beck's Hall.

The meeting will probably be opened by an address of welcome from Judge James P. Gregory, and the principal topics and speakers will be as follows: Response to the address of welcome by C. M. Hanna; "Remedies for the Diseases of Potatoes," Union Blight, etc., H. Garman, Kentucky Experiment Station; "Forcing Vegetables," C. W. Wade, Worcester, Ky.; and "Planting Conditions," W. R. Beattie, Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

One of the important projects which will likely be suggested at the meeting will be the formation of a canning factory for Jefferson county, and it was said by an authority last night that it is more than a probability that the farmers will co-operate and own a factory of this nature within the next six months.

WAS RIGHT

In Some Respects, but What Kind of a Lemon Was John Trying To Hand Us.

Okolona, Feb. 17.—John Anderson is right about the size of the lemon; but it is the kind sometimes handed out to one—no good. If that variety of lemon he speaks of does not fall after ripening it turns green. When ripening time comes again it will accommodate itself to the season and ripen. So on and on till it falls or is plucked; the latter but seldom, for it is of no use whatever. At least in the case with those canny, scrupulous and ponderous lemons as well as a good-for-nothing kind of orange which has the same habit of changing color.

How To Break An Ox.

If only one ox, a good way would be to hoist him by means of a chain attached to his tail to the top of a pole 40 feet from the ground. Then hoist him by a rope tied to his horns to another pole—then descend on to him a five-ton pile driver and if that don't break him let him start "a country newspaper and trust people for subscriptions." One of the two ways will do it sure.

Just because J. R. Z. says Bullitt county is a veritable "Garden of Eden;" just because O. G. Whizz says "J. C. W. B. should be given a 'round' for killing the Democratic party," and just because E. R. Sprowl says "too many little 'shacks' on posts are being built in Jeffersontown," is no reason whatever for the editor of this paper to believe as they do. We endorse a great many things these three gentlemen write, but not everything. If, any time, they or any one else, make statements in The Jeffersonian that are false, our columns are open for a reply. We invite all of our subscribers to write upon any subject that will uphold the county or be of interest to our many readers.

"WHAT YOU EAT, What YOU Are."

Is an axiom that has often been quoted by scientists on the food question. Good food makes light hearts, cherry dispositions, and good brain, but bad food causes indigestion, gout, sluggishness and other serious ailments. Therefore HAVE GOOD FOOD. Your food will not be good unless you use good food.

Run-Away Boys Captured.

Buechel, Feb. 17.—Frank Williams, County Patrolman of this district, caught two run-away boys at Cedar Springs, on the Bardonia road Thursday evening. The boys' names were Willie Goose and Tichenor Lambert, aged ten and twelve years and had run away from their homes in Louisville. They were taken to the home of the Board of Children's Guardians to wait the arrival of their parents.

There's Nothing Like It.

Billy Jones wrote on the black board, "Billy Jones can give a girl a better man than any boy has!" The teacher seeing it, called him out. "William, did you write that?" she said. Ten children waited for Billy to come out, when they began to guff him. "Got a lickin, didn't you?" "No," "What did she do?" they asked. "Shant tell," said Billy, "but it pays to advertise."

The funeral took place Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock from Sacred Heart Retreat in Newburg road and the interment was in St. Louis cemetery.

Smoke Wagons Pass Through.

Fairmont, Feb. 15.—Automobiles are a little out of season here, but we had about twenty of them on the road long since who made good time over our winter roads. They were on their way from New York to New Orleans. There were five men in the party, all comfortably seated in a huge red Oldsmobile, enclosed in flexible glass curtains. They carried the flags of both America and Cuba and proclaimed their identity by a huge advertisement on the back of their machine.

Surprise Wedding.

A surprise wedding took place when Miss Martha Veach and Mr. Robert Mayer were united in marriage in Jeffersonville, Feb. 1. Miss Veach is accomplished and is a well-known worker of the Baptist church. She is a niece of Mr. M. Conley, who used to live near Jeffersontown, with whom she made her home. Her many friends will be glad to learn of her taking the fortunate step. Mr. and Mrs. Mayer have gone to San Antonio, Texas, to take up their abode. May happiness be theirs and may they live long on earth to do good and inherit the home forever up yonder, is the wish of a FRIEND.

Grief Hastens Death.

Grief over the death of her husband, Thomas Miller, who passed away about two weeks ago, is believed to have hastened the death of Mrs. Sue Kennedy Miller, who died last Sunday evening at her home, on the Middletown pike. Deceased was eighty-one years old and the mother of Mrs. Henry Weatherby, of Middletown, and Mrs. Will Forbes, of Louisville. Two brothers, Alex. and Sam Kennedy, of Jeffersontown, and a sister, Mrs. J. Boomer, of Louisville, survive here. After funeral services, conducted by Rev. L. K. May at the residence, the burial took place in Jeffersontown cemetery.

Buggy Turned Over.

While on their way from Routt to Jeffersontown last Saturday afternoon Elmer McMahan and Elmer Carlin happened to an accident which resulted in a good wetting and some severe colds. The rains had made the road way bad and wet and just as they were passing through Seatonsville their buggy ran into a mud hole, turning it over and throwing Messrs. McMahan and Carlin to the ground. The buggy was so damaged that they had to borrow another one from Frank Jean, who lived near the place where the accident occurred, to continue their journey. Aside from a severe wetting and cold, as stated above, no further damage was done.

Presbyterian Church Transfers Full Control of Property to the Association—Officers Elected.

The Jeffersontown Cemetery Association met at the office of The Jeffersonian last Saturday and accepted the transfer of the control of the old cemetery from its owners, the Presbyterian church. The Association elected a board of trustees, composed of Edward Hoke, Charles D. Tucker and J. W. Omer. David McKinley was elected treasurer.

It is the intention to clean up and take care of this cemetery, which has been neglected so long. To do this will require the expenditure of a considerable amount of money. There is now $118.50 in the treasury, but more is needed to complete the good work begun. This can only be raised by voluntary contributions and we feel satisfied that the good citizens of Jeffersontown and vicinity, as well as those who have kindred buried there, will respond liberally. To clean it up now and not provide for the future would be very little good, consequently the trustees should have sufficient fund on hand to keep it in good condition.

Mrs. Viola B. Howell, Miss Carrie Hardin, Fred Myers and Louis Thomas are authorized to solicit contributions.

AN OLD MAN'S VIEW

Of The Tobacco Troubles In Kentucky—W. T. Clore Says Night-Riding Must Be Stopped.

W. T. Clore, of Anchorage, wrote the following letter to the Farmers Home Journal:

"I am past my three-score and ten. When I read of the sayings and doings of the people of the present time, it does seem to me that our people are no longer fit subjects for a government granting equal rights to all and special privileges to none. We are a world of people that has lost the Golden Rule of justice between man and man. I can't read and believe like some old men. I can't see any difference between the growers of tobacco combining to set price, and the buyers to set price. The growers ought to have a right to combine, so ought the man with money. But when either one combines to force the independent side into their way of business then they are violating the law of justice between God and their fellow-man. Those good old time farmers are no more. I have seen them in my young days, when there was no taking advantage in trading. When the product of the farms began to be hauled to market on the cars the freight charge was always taken from the price to a neighbor, for home use. Not so now.

Governor Wilson is right in trying to stop the young farmers from these night raids. It is an awful thing to think of, our children growing up with young men engaged in burning barns and mobbing their neighbors. It must be stopped in some way."

LOVE RENEWED.

I thought my heart was crushed and dead To all save endless aching. And never dreamed that aught on earth Could ever stave this breaking.

A widowed soul was steeped in pain And darkness evermore: From the torn tendrils of my heart The red drops trickled o'er. But dead grief nevermore shall dash Its cold and stinging billows Over my wrecked and palsied soul, Crushed low beneath the willows.

Because my heart is born anew And baptized in the fountain Flushing with love's electric touch, Each God's own line crowned mountain, 'Arise to walk in life renewed' I hear the angels say, 'The old is dead, let new life grow In sweetest day by day.'

The sunshine falls upon the earth Like mother-bliss warm And everywhere bright nature sings And wears a mystic charm. The world is charged with electric joy, My heart is thrilled with love, Fragments of Heaven steeped in bliss Have glided from above. Another earnest soul is mine In rare devotion sweet: Inconceivable rises from the shrine Where heart to heart meets.

Increase divine an action! That reach the Father's throne, With hallowed groups where loving souls Meet purity into one. Louisville. M. H. T.

O. G. WHIZZ.

No Station, Feb. 17, 1908.—Another week gone and a "showdown" is expected from me by The Jeffersonian. Please, Mr. Editor, turn me down until I am able to do something. (Sorry, but we can't do it.—EJ.)

News is scarcer than hen's teeth—no fires; no fight; no foot races; no marriages (and we don't care to write of death); no nothing until our fair—the best over and one never to be forgotten.

The Fiscal Court will soon have to set a lot of danger signals along the public highways to show unsuspecting parties the mud holes—those without bottom we mean. The pikes are worn through, and from No Station to Louisville the grand thoroughfare more than rivals the far-famed song of "Steady Road to Stony Point," that we have heard played if not seen.

Our public school, taught by Misses Dorothy and Elizabeth Skiles, closed Feb. 14. A three-months spring school will be taught by the same teachers, commencing Feb. 17. General satisfaction was given the patrons of the school and the "ladies" have the best wishes of the patrons for their excellent and satisfactory work.

The writer at this point is handicapped for news. Being placed so farly distant between Ashville and Buechel, not much chance is given the scribe to get news, as both the writers from Ashville and Buechel are up-to-date and enterprising—and often lap over—which leaves your humble servant no chance only to look aloft for news, or draw on his imagination, which is like a last fall cider barrel—almost dry. But go ahead, ye noble writers, for in this case it is much better to receive than to give.

It seems strange, yet nevertheless it is so, that when the courts are satisfied that a man kills his wife he is sent to the asylum, but when it is a doubtful case of wife-killing the accused is sent to the penitentiary for life.

The Jeffersonian editor seems to resent the idea of Beckham killing the "whore" Democratic party, and lays it to the "putting on of the lid" on Sunday. But, be as it may, if the whiskey business of Sundays killed the Democratic party of that time, enough good, sober, upright, law-abiding men, will, Phoenix-like, arise from the ashes to start and uphold a nobler, grander party than ever. May we all stay sober. (Amen!) But how are we going to bring these things to pass if we fight the men that stand out openly against "booing" and lawlessness?—Editor.]

J. R. Z., 'tis plain to see, is given to much flattery, but we are sure glad to hear from him, and would like to hear him, also. Keep him as long as you can and your readers will be happy.

An epidemic of sore eyes prevails at this place. No doubt caused by the constant strain in looking for the cars to come. Keep up your courage, eye save, and along about the time the blackberries begin to ripen and preparations for the Fourth of July picnics are well under way, then will the glad message be passed over the wires that in a few short months the long-looked for cars will come.

Business at No Station is on a big boom. The price of land runs from $250 to $1,000 per acre. That is, $250 has been paid, and $1,000 is asked—on account of the cars. Now, if such prices prevail, where, oh where, can anyone expect to secure enough land to build an humble home on? And how will that help any kind of business? Why the boom will simply pine away like a poisoned June bug, and its buzz be heard no more. "Mr. Price, you must come down."

If the buckster wagons and lumber haulers from the upper continues to increase, our pike will be fast traveling. Three thousand yards of rock were put on last fall from Fern Creek bridge to Hionala church, and the railroad contractors scraped off four-fifths of them and put in the fill and horizontally at four to fourteen inches of mud instead. Now there are not enough rock left on the pike for a school boy to throw at a dog. The only tie we have with the outside world is by telephone, and that is hard to get sometimes.

We said in our last letter we had voted for Republicans since 1872. We were disputed by a Republican of recent date. We acknowledge we voted for W. J. Bryan—and felt so one would mention it, but our recent Kepah— who also voted for Bryan, couldn't let a man's littleness remain in obscurity.

During the last thaw the bottom fell out of that part of the "Old Trail" between "No Station" and "Col. Swack's residence." One day the Colonel realized he had tobacco and to the store at No Station he was compelled to go. But how? was the question. He couldn't ride or drive, as it was impossible for even an empty horse to tread on. The way was to thick for his skill. But tobacco he must have. Being a man, that can always find a way, he succeeded in that. A noise of unusual size was heard at the back door of the store. Upon investigation it proved to be the Colonel, and you ought to have seen him. He had a roster under each arm, a bundle of oats tied to his back and mud almost to his whiskers. He put his tied oats to his back for fear he would sink, and if he had, the rosters would scratch him out trying to get the oats, but—say, give me that tobacco.

Man born of a woman is of few days and full of the devil. He springs up like a mushroom, and if he survives, colic, cramp and patent baby foods, he grows into a frowzy, freckle-faced boy as innocent of any good intention as any imp, roams around seeking whom he may annoy. Spends a good deal of time fishing, tying up his sore toe and fixing his one suspender. Emerges into the callow youth, trying to raise a mustache and smoke a cigarette. Calls his father "old man," and all other men "Professor." Smiles and winks at the girls; should one return the smile he then puts on the gobbler strut. After a time he learns to look at cat eyes, as a recent bill and whoops for his man to get a deputyship. Succeeds—tries once more. Gets beat; is out of money scarce of friends, and can look around and see others going the same route. Smiles, takes a drink, when offered, and tells how to save the country.

Uncle John, we are sorry to say, has had a severe case of the grip, but at present writing is slowing on the improve. His recent sickness has somewhat hindered the completion of his Universal Egg Dater, which is to be worn by hens to date their eggs, so that first-class hotel patrons may have a chance to eat eggs, as a recent bill before the Legislature forbids cold storage eggs or fish to be used. Now this egg dater is a sure date, not only giving exact date, but also the kind of hen that lays the egg. It is easily attached and serves also a safe guard against a rock or chunk, when hove horizontally at the hen in anger, when she has just finished scratching up the last pea or is rolling in the lettuce bed. Here is hoping success to Uncle John and his noble invention.

Another livery barn, larger than the one now built at Fern Creek, will soon be put up, and will be ready when the CARS COME; additions and alterations in the present business houses are to be made, ready when the CARS COME; a big department store after the plan of Sears, Roebuck & Co. is under contemplation to be ready when the CARS COME; delivery wagons will be thicker than yellow butterflies around a summer mud-puddle when the CARS COME; the ready nickel will be in great demand and Mr. Business will work himself to fever heat when the CARS COME; the country "yap" will look with longing eye at the painted "daisies" from the city when the CARS COME; mamma's darling and papa's pet will be dressed in best tub and tucker to meet the city cousins when the CARS COME; in fact, what has never been and what may never be—will be here when the CARS COME.

O. G. WHIZZ.

HIDDEN BLESSINGS.

The earthquake's fearful shuddering groan
The volcano's lava tide,
Purchase no messages Divine
To crush rebellious pride.
The pestilence that stalks in silence,
And blanches beauty's cheek,
May lead the stubborn heart to God
And teach it to be meek.

The surging ocean, marked by
The storming's fiercest lash,
The fiery torques that pierce the clouds,
The tornado's murderous roar,
O'erwhelm the trembling soul with awe,
Entrilled with Heavenward fear,
The irreverent heart that knew not God
Is led to earnest prayer.

Cecil, of Danville, Ky. The top price was $7,500, which Walter R. Cox, of Nashville, N. H., paid for George Gano, a son of Gambetta Wilkes.

Mrs. T. J. Hughes, of Beaver Lick, Ky., writes that she wants to buy some cows that will give a good flow of milk, and also make a good yield of butter. She wants the skin-milk for pigs. We suggest that she buy Holsteins, either pure bred or grades, as this breed has the reputation of giving large quantity of milk, and as the cream from Holstein milk does not separate so readily as from the strictly butter breeds, the skin-milk is regarded as more valuable for pigs and young calves. Some of the short-horn families are also excellent milkers, and if Mrs. Hughes can get some grade Short-horns of good milk strains they will probably suit her purpose as well or better than any other.—Farmers Home Journal.
